

Change and Consequences

Read the information first. Choose what matters. Then build accurate sentences and a complete idea chain.

Core classroom goal

Make every sentence do a clear job.

Meaning and selection come before decoration.

1. D-S-T
Read direction, strength, and time.
2. A-P-C
Read axes, patterns, and comparisons.
3. T-J-R
Find topic, jobs, and their relationship.
4. C-S-M-R
Build cause, solution, mechanism, and result.

Classroom rule

Work through the route selected in class. One independently controlled method is more valuable than rushing through every exercise.

Takeaway 1. Read a trend before naming it

Recognition cue: use this method when a line shows change over time.

D-S-T
A three-decision method for every trend sentence.

D - Direction
Did it rise, fall, fluctuate, or level off?

S - Strength
Was the change slight, steady, gradual, sharp, or wild?

T - Time
When did it happen, and did the pattern change?

Wrong path

Do not choose an impressive trend word before reading the whole line. A line can rise overall but still fluctuate on the way.

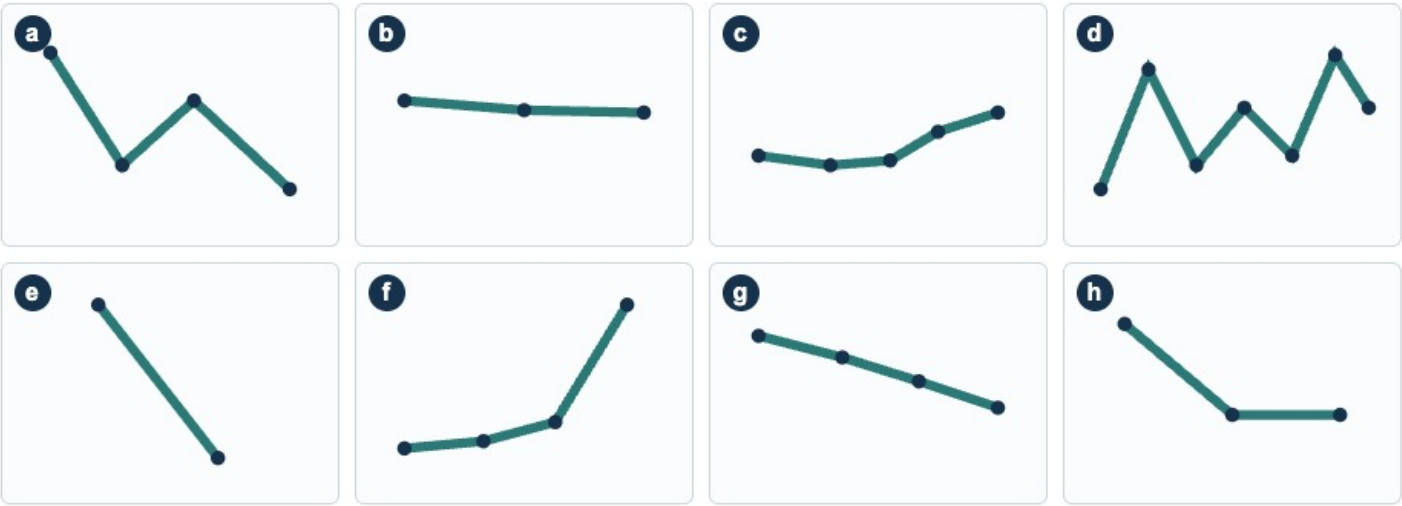

Worked example

subject Audio-cassette sales direction fell strength steadily.

Why it works: the verb gives the direction; the adverb describes the manner of the change.

Exercise 1. Match the eight trend shapes

Write a-h beside descriptions 1-8. Then underline each trend verb and circle each strength word.

1. _____ Sales fell steadily.
2. _____ Sales rose gradually.
3. _____ Sales fluctuated wildly, but the overall trend was upward.
4. _____ Sales fluctuated wildly, and the overall trend was downward.
5. _____ Sales dropped slightly.
6. _____ Sales fell and then levelled off.
7. _____ Sales rose gradually and then climbed sharply.
8. _____ Sales declined dramatically.

Notice the strength

Slow or controlled: steadily, gradually, slightly

Fast or large: sharply, dramatically, suddenly, significantly

Add one more word to each group.

Change the grammar, keep the meaning

Sales fell steadily. -> There was a steady fall in sales.

Film production rose dramatically. -> There was _____.

Visitor numbers fluctuated slightly. -> There were _____.

Research investment declined gradually. -> There was _____.

Exercise 2. Make the noun phrase compact

- the consumption of chocolate -> _____
- the production of films -> _____
- the sale of mobile phones -> _____
- the number of visitors -> _____

Unaided transfer

Cover the word bank. Choose any two mini-graphs and write one accurate sentence for each. Include direction, strength, and time order where needed.
